PERSONAL & PROFESSIONAL

There is one vital thing that makes stationery great, it is the care and detail in it's contents. It is the sense of care, the voluminous attention to detail - that makes things matter, that detains the eye, engages the mind and emotions.

And it goes without saying that one cannot pay this kind of attention to detail until you understand quite a lot about different papers, different printing techniques, historic, current and future designs directions, the variety of fonts and colour options, and the rest - that go to make great and memorable printing.
